National Cart Expands Its Footprint to the Eastern Region

National Cart, a leader in the manufacturing of material handling products headquartered in St. Charles, MO, announced today the opening of a new facility in Wilkes-Barre, PA.

Wilkes-Barre will be the third US location for National Cart. The other sites include Reno, NV that opened in 2000, and their corporate office in St. Charles, MO. These combined locations bring a total manufacturing and distribution space to over 460,000 Sq Ft.

"Our expansion into Pennsylvania will give us additional manufacturing and distribution space to better serve our east coast customers. This expansion makes logistical sense and demonstrates our commitment to our customers and the investment to grow our business. The three strategically placed locations will give National Cart a better opportunity to help our customers grow their business," said Rob Unnerstall, President and CEO of National Cart.

National Cart's, Paul Deutsch, will lead the team at the Wilkes-Barre, PA location. Unnerstall stated, "I am pleased to have Paul lead the initiative to grow the business and the team in the eastern region. I have total confidence in him and our expansion's future success."
